Corinne Hofstetter and Rebecca Moore successfully completed the Destination Management Certified Professional examination held July 9, 2008 in Miami, Florida. The certification is awarded by the Association of Destination Management Executives (ADME) to candidates who have demonstrated a high level of knowledge within the Destination Management Industry. Requirements for the designation include having been a member of a Destination Management Company (DMC) for a minimum of three years and have shown a professional level of responsibility and accountability in the successful completion of DMC Programs. Corinne and Rebecca join Arrangers' team members Nicole Marsh, Zack Strober and Karl Heitz who also hold this certification.

Corinne became part of The Arrangers' team in September 2004 and is a Program Manager, overseeing the entire process from sales to operations for small market clients. She also manages all company Public Relations including The Arrangers' new electronic Newsletter. She is currently serves on the committee for Network for the Needy, benefiting the Food Bank of the Rockies. In March, she was awarded the "Go the Extra Mile" Award by the Denver Metro Convention & Visitor's Bureau for her commitment to the hospitality industry.

Rebecca joined The Arrangers in November 2003 as a Sales Manager, and focuses primarily on the Corporate market. Prior to making the move to a DMC, Rebecca worked at Nuances, a former local décor company, and has over ten years of experience in the hospitality industry. She is currently involved in the Green Meetings Industry Council (GMIC), International Special Event Society and Rocky Mountain Chapter of Meeting Professionals International (RMCMPI). Rebecca has served on the RMCMPI gala planning committee for the last four years, was nominated as Event Planner of the year in 2007 and 2008, and was recently awarded the 2007-2008 President's Award of Excellence.
